Smotherman, officiating and paying a beautiful tribute to her life in the presence of one of the largest congregation ever assembled in Granville. At the close of the services a long procession followed the funeral car to the old Shirley cemetery, where the remains were laid to rest.

In the death of Mrs. Cooper, the county, and especially the community, in which she lived, fully and keenly realize a great loss. She had been devoted member of the M. Her devotion to those she loved would make a bright chapter in any life. Those who knew her best most love to contemplate her.

M. McCain, Dr. and Mrs. L. M. Frenman, Dr. and F. O. Cornwell, Dr. and Mrs. R. C. Gaw, Dr. and Mrs. Reeves. After the crowd had exchanged greetings the doctors repaired to the M. E. church and proceeded to discuss matters pertaining to their and their countrymens betterment and after one hour of interesting discussion, we were summoned back to the Anderson home where we found awaiting, a festive board groaning under the weight of roast lamb, chicken, vegetables of all kinds, various salads and pickles prepared to a Queen's taste, and cake galore, all of which would have tickled the palate of a King, and lots of other things that were toothsome in the fullest sense of the word, but, alas how sad, no room for them. To say that the feast was enjoyed by the doctors and their wives, and other guests, would be but a feeble expression of the fact. After this magnificent feast the doctors again assembled at the little village church for the afternoon session, but after reassembling it seemed that we were all too full for utterance, but after a few lively discussions we warmed up to our work and had a splendid meeting. The essayist of the day was Dr. Frank B. Clark, of North Springs, whose subject was "Bacillary Dysentery." The paper was pronounced a good one by all present. The discussion was followed by Dr. L. M. Freeman of Granville, after which, each and all the M. D.'s took a lively part.

Our next regular meeting will be at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Quarles at Whitleyville Sept. 19th, at which time the following program will be carried out: Amoebic Dyeentery, by Dr. Anderson; Malarial fever, Dr. Freeman; to open discussion of Dr. Anderson's paper Dr. F. The following is the subject for Sunday night Aug. 21, "Heaven or Immortality."

2. What heaven is.

3. Who will be there

4. How long heaven will last

K. A. Early, Pastor.

Henry Ford in an interview with a magazine writer not long ago said the impelling motive with most men is the sense of fear. Men fear they will lose their money, of their position, or their health or the esteem of freinds—any or all of these and other thing—and their fears make them timid and inefficient.

The idea in not a new one. We once heard a minister preach a sermon on "The Sin of Fear." He argued that if a man lived the right life he would have nothing to fear and that therefore fear was sin, or the result of sin.

People who have this sense of fear so highly developed in their make-up are to be pitied, although they may not wholly deserve it. Most of fears are groundless; the danger we fear do not exist. Our expected trouble are never as great as we think they will be our misfortunes as a rule could be much greater.

There is and nothing and nobody to rear expect God, and Him only when we have disobeyed Him, and do not love Him, for perfect love cast out all fear.

"THEY Satisfy"—nothing else so well describes Chesterfields' mildness, their mellowness, their delicacy of aroma and smooth, even "body." It took the finest varieties of Turkish and Domestic tobaccos to do it—and the highest order of skill in blending them. Yes, the Chesterfield blend is a secret. It can't be copied.
